POP-UP MUSEUM SUCCESS

On Saturday and Sunday the 4th and 5th of July the newly formed Cusop History Group held a Pop-Up Museum in the Cusop Village Hall. On display were a large collection of maps of the area, various written documents, a running slide show of historical buildings and points of interest along with the artefacts brought by the general public. The weekend was highly successful with over 100 visitors and as a result it was agreed to put the Cusop History Group on a more permanent footing. One of the items on display was a mystery believed to be a Celtic stone. Can you identify it?

WANTED

We urgently need a committee secretary to take minutes and work with the Chair to arrange meetings. It is anticipated that there will be no more than 3 or 4 meetings in a year as most of the group's meetings will be informal.

NEW ARTEFACTS GROUP

The new group consisting of Denise Darbyshire, Sue and Keith Hodgetts and Jane Weaver will be getting in touch with everybody who brought an artefact to the Pop-Up Museum. This will take some time as there were large number of exhibits so please be patient, we have not forgotten you.

ORAL AND SOCIAL HISTORY

Sue Hodgetts along with various members of the History Group have been interviewing older Cusop residents to record their memories. Summaries and further details can be found on the website.
